Scouts have fun in, on, and under the water!

They swim, canoe, kayak, and play.
No matter where a Scout lives, a stream, lake, river , or coastline is waiting nearby to be discovered and explored.

Scouts value the outdoors and conservation

To honor 100 years of Scouting in America, Scouts are challenged to give one million hours of service.

Help protect and restore watersheds, monitor water quality, or clean up beaches and rivers.

Adopt or develop a project for your unit, crew or ship that will impact your community at

www.pawaterways.org

A National Youth Marine Alliance Project

PRESERVE AMERICA'S WATERWAYS

WHO?

Tiger Scouts, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, Venturers, Explorers and other community groups

WHY?

- Celebrate 100 Years of Scouting in America by participating in a service project that helps to protect our waterways and fosters a commitment to lifelong stewardship
- Scouts looking for an Eagle Scout or Quartermaster Sea Scout project, or units looking for a service project will find many ideas and opportunities at www.pawaterways.org

HOW?

- Visit www.pawaterways.org to adopt or define a project
- Invite your friends, family and community to join in your project
- Return to www.pawaterways.org to record your hours, upload pictures, and share your successes
- Visit often to see how many hours have been logged from groups across the nation

www.pawaterways.org

"The Preserve America's Waterways project will grow awareness of the critical issues, have an immediate impact through citizen service and have the long term outcome of dedicating an entire generation to the preservation of our waterways and shorelines."

Vice Admiral (Ret.) Charlie Wurster
National Sea Scout Commodore

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
100 YEARS OF SCOUTING
BSA 2010
CELEBRATING THE ADVENTURE
CONTINUING THE JOURNEY

A National Youth Marine Alliance Project